Nomination of Gov. Morrili Foreshadowed, Early.

Topeka. Kansas, Aug. 11. The Republican State convention opened here to-day in camp meeting style, one thousand delegates and visitors uniting in singlay a new version of the popular hymn "Throw Out the Life Line," led by Rev. John A. Bright, of Topeka, who then invoked the divine blessing. When the convention was called to order no time was lost to testing the strength of the Morrili and sati-Morrili forces, the former nominating C. M. Sheldon for temporary chairman and the latter J. F. Greenlee. Sheldon was easily elected by a vote of 624 to 229.

This foreshadows the renomination of Gov. Morrill on the first ballot.

After the appointment of the usual committies the convention centered in the contest for chief justice.

> Portrait Painting Sir Joshua, Galnaborough, Romney, the men of gentus who embody a brilliant epoch of English pointing, have certainly ed the grace and charm of wo hood in a quite unequaled manner. But grace and charm are not everything, I consider that an idea of womanhood which is founded almost exclusively on grace and charm is a very poor ideal.

And not only is their ideal a very flimsy To those who study with an unblaced mind the reports of the ghastly Mosesw "crush" and "rout," there is something And not only I their ideal a very filmay one, but the way in which they allowed it to swallow up the individuality of their sitters is fatal to the highest portrature. There is an astemding similarity of type throughout the school. Were none of their innumerable faunde sitters ever broad shouldared? Had they none of the big firm months and square jaws! They cannot all have been slim and dainty. Had none of them the magnificent, robust type of the Venus of Miho or of the women of Titian? Indeed we may go much farther. Some of them must have been fat. Do we ever find a stout woman in the painting of this school? And some of them must have been short and equal and some of them must have been short and equal and some of them must of the masses of fresotted mujiks, who, for the sakh of a tined cup, a saussice, a piece of bread and a few accetment, trampled each ot ter to death in their humbred thouschool And some of them must have been short and squat-und some of them must have been downright 18ly. But we never see them. I am aware that there is the most extraordinary and even uncanny power of adaptation in the fomale form to the prevailing fashion, but it is not unlimited. For instance, it is now the fashion for women to be tall, and it is remarkable bow many of them contrive to be in the fashion; but there are exceptions. In these charming portraits (there seems to be the fashion; but there are exceptions. In those charming portraits there seem to be practically no exceptions to the prevailing type.
